Bishop Brian McGee writes of the SYNOD

"The Synod's synthesis report has been approved. My feeling is one of deep peace because I am satisfied that the Holy Spirit is at work. Yes, important and delicate questions remain but if the Church can genuinely be open to the Spirit I sincerely believe that all will be well.

The report accurately reflects the Synod's experience during the past month: where there has been agreement, where there have been divergences, where progress has been made, suggestions for further reflection and proposed actions.

Please remember that this was only the Synod's First Session while the Second Session will be held in October 2024. Therefore the report which we approved tonight is a transitory document. It is important to recognise that the text doesn't have definitive answers precisely because we have one more year for prayer, sharing and deeper discernment. However, next October's Synod will present concrete proposals to the Pope for his consideration."
